Dear [REDACTED]

Rec'd 9/30/85. ORIGINAL AND TWO
COPIES PROVIDED VIA DHL WORLDWIDE
EXPRESS ON 9/30/85 TO: SSA [REDACTED]
OFFICE OF THE CONTRACTING OFFICER,
ROOM 6875, FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION,
9TH + PA AVE, NW, WDC 20535.

Attached is a revised contract which Questar Corporation's Legal Department has prepared, to more greatly tie into the protections our company feels are necessary before entering into a final agreement with the FBI, for the use of the Mountain Meadow Camp in Utah. The changes recommended by the company, although substantial in number, are still reasonably close to those originally recommended in your standard contract.

The changes we are recommending are largely precipitated by our insurance coverages, and our desire to make sure that while we prize our patriotic duty, we don't want to jeopardize our company's position with its stock holders, rate payers, and in general the customers it serves.

We have recently been notified that our insurance coverage will increase significantly, unless we are willing to assume a greater deductible. Because that coverage will change frequently, the company can not be tied to a fixed dollar limitation for your liability. In addition, the company feels that certain clauses in the FBI Agreement are restrictive, as to Questar's rights to manage its properties. Therefore, those clauses have been altered in this agreement.

While I am sure we are all frustrated by the length of time it takes to initiate and approve agreements, Questar Corporation nonetheless feels it important that the agreement be approved as modified.

Please let me know if additional information is required by your Washington, D.C. offices, in which case the same will be provided.

SUBJECT FBI Agreement

Attached is the modified agreement to permit the FBI to use the office-warehouse-garage building in the Mountain Meadow Camp. I have made the following changes to provide Resources with additional protection:

1. No limit on the FBI's liability--the FBI wanted a $200,000 limit.
2. Extended the time Resources has to request the FBI to restore the facilities from 30 days to six months.
3. Made the FBI's first $1,000 payment due in 30 days.
4. Eliminated the provision requiring Resources to pay the FBI for expenses the FBI might incur in acquiring substitute space (if Resources violated the discrimination provision). [Redacted Box] refused to accept this provision.
5. Eliminated the provision giving the FBI the right to deduct the costs of repairs, utilities, etc., from its rental payments in the event Resources failed to provide these services.
6. Eliminated the provision making Resources' compensation contingent upon compliance with the agreement. This does not seem necessary.
7. Provided that either party can terminate the agreement on 30 days' notice.
8. Added a provision that the FBI will not interfere with Resources' tenants.
9. Prohibited the FBI from assigning the agreement without Resources' consent.
10. Deleted the "no substitutions" language in Exhibit B, 4.C., per [Redacted Box] note.

AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is entered into this _____ day of _____, 19____, by MOUNTAIN FUEL RESOURCES, INC., a Utah corporation, hereinafter referred to as "Resources," and the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION, hereinafter referred to as "FBI."

THE PARTIES REPRESENT THAT:

A. The FBI desires to use certain facilities located at the Mountain Meadow Camp on an emergency basis for communications purposes.

B. Resources agrees to provide facilities at Mountain Meadow Camp for the FBI's use on an emergency basis.

THEREFORE, THE PARTIES AGREE AS FOLLOWS:

1. Resources agrees that upon 24 hour's advance notice it will permit the FBI to use the following described building only during emergencies, which shall be determined by the FBI on a good faith basis. The building's exterior measures 183 feet, 6 inches by 60 feet, and is of varying heights. Included in the building are a warehouse, office and garage.

	Height	Square Footage
Warehouse	17'	2,460
Office	24'4" (2-story)	4,920
Garage	21'	6,060

The legal description of this building's site is attached as Exhibit A. Resources also agrees to permit the FBI to use a right-of-way from the building, over the existing Redwood Road, to Utah State Highway 16.

2. Resources agrees that when the FBI is using the building, Resources shall remove all vehicles and related service equipment from the building.

3. The parties agree that unless the building is needed on an emergency basis by the FBI, Resources shall occupy the building and shall maintain the building, equipment and fixtures. When the FBI is occupying this building on an emergency basis, Resources may still enter, inspect and repair the building, equipment and fixtures upon approval of an authorized FBI representative. Resources shall not be responsible for repairing damage caused by the FBI's negligence or other acts.

4. Resources agrees to provide the utility improvements and alterations to its facilities required by the FBI, included in Exhibit B to this Agreement, which is incorporated herein by reference. The FBI agrees to pay all of the costs for the improvements or alterations listed in Exhibit B.

5. The FBI shall pay $1,000 per year for the right to use Resources' building. The $1,000 for the first year is due within the next 30 days. The $1,000 for each remaining year is due on the first day of the United States government's fiscal year. If in any year the United States Congress does not appropriate funds for this purpose, this Agreement terminates immediately.

6. The FBI shall pay $750 per day for each day that it uses, occupies, or otherwise controls Resources' building and facilities in addition to the $1,000 per year provided in paragraph 5.

7. The FBI shall restore Resources' building, fixtures and equipment to their original unaltered condition if Resources requests this restoration in writing within six months following the day this Agreement terminates. The request for restoration shall be mailed to:

Contracting Officer, Headquarters
Federal Bureau of Investigation
10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20535

8. The FBI indemnifies and holds Resources harmless from and against any claims, demands and causes of action of every kind that may arise by reason of the acts or omissions of the FBI, its employees or agents, arising under this Agreement.

9. The FBI understands that Resources' employees, and others, occupy residences near the building. Therefore, the FBI agrees to not interfere in any way with any of Resources' tenants or Resources' or its tenants' property.

10. This Agreement shall be in effect for five years. However, either party may terminate this Agreement at any time by giving the other party 30 day's written notice.

11. This Agreement shall be binding upon Resources, its assignees or successors. The FBI shall not assign this Agreement without Resources' prior written consent.

12. If Resources' building is destroyed by fire or other casualty, this Agreement immediately terminates. If Resources' building, fixtures and equipment are only partially destroyed or damaged, the FBI may terminate this Agreement by giving Resources notice within 30 days. If the FBI does not terminate the Agreement, the parties shall agree to either maintain the same rent as provided above or reduce that rent by a written agreement.

13. Resources warrants that it has not employed or retained any person or selling agent to solicit or secure this Agreement for a commission, percentage, brokerage or contingent fee, except bona fide employees or established commercial or selling agents maintained by Resources for the purpose of securing business.

14. Resources agrees that it will not discriminate by segregation or otherwise against any person because of race, color, religion, sex or national origin in furnishing or refusing to furnish the use of any facility Resources customarily furnishes to tenants, employees, customers, guests and invitees.

15. Resources agrees that it will not reveal the confidential and sensitive terms and conditions or the general purpose of this Agreement and will not publish or disseminate any information or material pertaining to this Agreement without the FBI's prior written authorization.

16. Resources agrees to accept direction under this Agreement only from an official of the U.S. government acting on the FBI's behalf.

17. This Agreement constitutes the full and complete understanding between Resources and the FBI. Any modification to this Agreement will not be effective unless it is in writing, signed by both parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, this Agreement has been executed by the parties on the date first written above.

The liability of the lessee in this regard shall not exceed $25,000 for each period of occupancy.

7. As consideration of the rights granted to the lessee by the lessor, the lessee agrees to pay the lessor $2,500 per year on a United States Government fiscal year basis. This obligation is contingent upon the yearly receipt of appropriated funds from the United States Congress. In no event shall the obligation of the lessee exceed $500,000 for any single thirty day period of occupancy.

It is agreed that the lessor's noncompliance with the provisions of this section shall constitute a material breach of this lease. JUN 18 1986 DESERET NEWS
Reno firm tentatively agrees to buy Orem studios

By Ken Perkins
Deseret News staff writer

OREM — A Reno company that has been leasing Osmond Studios for the past nine months announced a tentative deal to purchase the north Orem entertainment complex from its Canadian owner.

Summit International Studios has reached an agreement in principal to buy the studio complex from Canada Life Assurance Co., said Summit president Paul D. McAmis.

Terms of the deal were not disclosed, but last month a Canada Life spokesman said the company wanted at least $1.97 million for the studio. The Toronto-based life insurance company paid that amount to purchase the complex at a trustee's auction May 7.

"We have entered a written agreement with Canada Life for the purchase of the studio," McAmis said Monday. "Closing will occur in approximately 60 to 90 days. The agreement is still undergoing some fine-tuning. When we get a few minor details worked out we will call a press conference to make an announcement."

Canada Life became the unwilling owner of the studio last month when it foreclosed on a mortgage to former owner Paul Jensen. Canada Life had purchased the mortgage on the studio in 1981 when the Osmond family sold the 100,000-square-foot complex to Jensen, a former Texas real estate developer and mortgage broker. He filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in March 1985.

The insurance company bought the mortgage as one of many investments it makes with policy holder's premium payments. The company buys mortgages from originating lenders at a discount, and makes a profit as the mortgage is paid off at full value over the life of the mortgage.

To foreclose on Jensen, Canada Life in effect bought the studio from itself at auction. The company's $1.97 million bid was the only one entered. Canada Life, which had hoped for someone else to bid for the studio, immediately put the building up for sale again.

Summit announced last year that it had bought the studio from Jensen, only to see the deal fall when financing fell through. Summit has operated the studio since last September when it leased the complex from Jensen.

Summit's deal with Canada Life is for the purchase of the studio building only. Summit is negotiating now to purchase all the equipment in the complex, McAmis said. That equipment is still owned by Jensen through his company Western National Studios.

McAmis has said the studio operation has been a financial success since Summit began leasing the facility. Negotiations are under way for production of three television series at the studio.

Canada Life paid $1.97 million to purchase the former Osmond Studios (above) in May; many entertainment stars left permanent handprints in connection with performing at center (below)

TRIBUNE, 6-17-86, P.D-1
Reno-Based Summit Buys
Former Osmond Studios

Summit International Studios, whose principals are based in Reno, has purchased what originally were known as the Osmond Studios in Orem, from Canada Life, an insurance company.

The announcement was made by Paul D. McAmis, president of Summit, who said the company is negotiating for three network series and one first-run syndication series that will be produced at the studio.

The studio was built by the singing Osmond family who primarily used it to produce the "Donnie and Marie Show" in the 1970s. The family sold the studio about three years ago.

Summit International leased the studio in September 1985 from Western National Studios. But on May 7, Canada Life foreclosed on Western National for the studio.

Mr. McAmis said Summit has been using the 120,000-square-foot studio for television and motion picture production work. For example, the studio has been used almost exclusively to produce national commercial spots such as Kool Aid, Toyota, Nissan, Chevrolet, Lancomb and several Disney cable shows.

Mr. McAmis said the studio recently was used to produce a music video with Herb Albert and Lani Hall based on Ms. Hall's Grammy Award-winning song.

Summit International was mainly formed to purchase and operate the Orem studio. Mr. McAmis said the company is examining the possibility of constructing another studio in another state.

Mr. McAmis said the company also intends to expand the Orem studio's production and support capacity. He said plans call for another sound stage.

The studio employs about 30 employees full time, and about 60 to 70 during a production.

DRIVE ALONG INTERSTATE 15, just south of Salt Lake City, and you can still see it: a billboard advertising tours of the Osmond Studios in nearby Orem. Follow the sign's directions, and you come upon not just a collection of studios, but an entire complex.

The complex — like the careers that made it possible — is the product of an Osmond family dream, one first foreseen by 22-year-old Merrill Osmond in 1976. It was then that Merrill — family spokesperson and “financial wizard” — envisioned what a reporter at the time described as an “Osmond community, where all units of the family would live in individual dwellings located in a common circle, joined by avenues with names like Wayne’s Way.” He predicted Osmond Estates would include a full-size theater for performances, a recording studio, and videotaping facilities with security provided by a guardhouse. “This is a dream,” he pronounced.

One year after Merrill’s vision, the dream became reality. Now, it seems more like a nightmare.

These days, tours are by appointment only. In the main building’s public lobby, lifelike color portraits of the family are on permanent display: the five young Osmond boys — Jay, Alan, Wayne, Merrill and Donny — in orange tuxes, a proud Mom and Pop Osmond, a family portrait including Jimmy and Marie, and a solo shot of Jay in a tux. But the gold records have been packed and returned to the family. In the parking lot, the stenciled names of various Osmond family members have long been painted over, and the guardhouse that Merrill predicted sits abandoned, orange-and-white barricade stuck straight up in the air.

The sign on the street no longer proclaims Osmond Studios, but Summit International, and the property the Osmonds leased back in 1977 is now partially shared by a methadone clinic. Today, only two brothers, Wayne and Alan, live on Osmond Lane, behind a gate locked to the public, a short drive up the hill from the studio.

WHAT HAPPENED to the dream? It died, a victim of over-ambition, bad luck and a pinch of greed. The ‘80s have proved a tough decade for the Osmonds, the singing family of Mormons whose squeaky-clean music yielded 23 gold records between 1971 and 1978 — and whose faces became even better known through four seasons of “Donny and Marie” on ABC.

Brother Jay has left show business entirely and taken a nine-to-five job at Brigham Young University. Alan, Wayne and Merrill have struggled to keep their country act afloat. Looking to ditch their white-bread image, Donny and Jimmy have left the Utah mountains and moved to California. Marie’s “problems” — as the family refers to her much-publicized divorce — have become a staple of the supermarket gossip sheets. And hemmed in by financial pressures, the family has been forced to sell their outside-of-Hollywood studio, their oasis in the mountains.

What happened to the dream? “They should have stuck to the things they knew best,” declares one longtime friend of the Osmond family. “Singing and dancing.”

THAT TOO-GOOD-to-be-true brother-and-sister act, that was just a facade. I didn’t create it, and now I’m trying to get over something I wasn’t even responsible for.”

Donny Osmond is complaining as he maneuvers his BMW down Sunset Boulevard, mobile phone brrringing, Radio Shack portable computer on his lap (“It’s the only way I can keep my schedule straight”). The floorboard is littered with cassette tapes, demos from dozens of songwriters he’s considering for a hoped-for next album, and testimonial sermons by Mormon church president Ezra Taft Benson. Floating around inside the car, whipped up by a warm February breeze, are a handful of construction-paper drawings done by his (and wife Debbie’s) three kids — Donald Jr., 6; Jeremy, 4; and Brandon, 1.

Donny’s mind, though, is on the show that set his goody-goody image in stone. “What really gets under my skin is that once ‘Donny and Marie’ was on the air, the network took over. You know — all that stuff where Marie is punching me in the stomach, all the pies in the face, the tacky humor — all that stuff was network-dictated. I became a puppet.”

The wholesome image of Donny and his family was burnished by producers who insisted on changing the lyrics of Three Dog Night's "Joy to the World" from "very good wine" to "very good milk." "We were young — brainwashed, programmed to do a specific thing," he says. "The show was so successful, the family, the producers, the network didn't want to tamper with success. They portrayed Marie and me as being so close, and it's not that way. If anything, the show pulled us apart. It's not like we hate each other, it's just not as American apple pie as people think. That's why the perception people have of us bothers me."

That network show was the culmination of 20 long years of behind-the-scenes promotion by Donny's parents, George and Olive Osmond. Back in the '50s, Mom and Pop discovered their sons' had a knack for singing in tune. By the '60s, the then-Donny-less foursome (Merrill, Jay, Alan and Wayne) had done some gigs at Disneyland and eventually became weekly regulars on "The Andy Williams Show."

Donny joined his brothers at age 5, in 1962; Jimmy signed on in 1967, at age 3. They also did TV shows with Jerry Lewis and toured with Phyllis Diller and Pat Boone. "I remember when I was 7, sitting backstage in Vegas while these topless showgirls adjusted their G-strings in front of me," recalls Donny. "It was a strange way to grow up."

In 1970, MGM Records president Mike Curb signed them to a recording deal, and by '71, they'd notched what would be their only No. 1 single as a group: the infectious "One Bad Apple." Later that year, Donny had a No. 1 of his own with "Go Away Little Girl," and the '70s' newest teen dreams were launched. Millions of fans worldwide snapped up albums, posters, T-shirts, Donny wristwatches, Super-8 films of the family in concert and every other imaginable piece of Osmond paraphernalia. The family toured the world, playing extensive dates in Las Vegas and selling out 20,000-seat arenas around the U.S. In 1976 alone, the family grossed an estimated $10 million. The smiling Osmonds became the stereotype for good, clean all-American fun.

"And contrary to public perception," notes Donny, "I didn't sit around and drink milk all day."

IT IS, OF COURSE, that clean-cut image that has saddled him to this day. Donny clearly hates that image — and tries, almost to a fault, to live it down. He moved to Irvine, Calif., last August — against the advice of his family — to put him closer to the rock 'n' roll action he wants to be a part of. He's had his picture taken with Billy Idol, gossiped with Boy George and even been embraced by South African bishop Desmond Tutu (who probably didn't catch the Osmonds' 1981 Sun City show). "My family is pretty conservative," admits Donny, "and they think I'm making some mistakes."

Most surprising, though, was his recent appearance on ABC's "Nightline," when he argued against attempts by the Parents' Music Resource Center to slap ratings on rock records. "I really got in deep yogurt over that," he confesses. "But I'm convinced it's the right stand. Besides, I don't want my album coming out with a G rating. Nobody would buy it. It'll end up in the section next to 'The Jungle Book' soundtrack. But I could get away with murder, couldn't I? What parent wouldn't let their kid buy a Donny Osmond record?"

Donny claims this is the first time, having grown up in a family of nine kids, that he's had any autonomy — no big brother telling him what to do. The first time he tried to break away, in 1982, he signed on as the lead in the Broadway play "Little Johnny Jones." It closed on opening night. "That was a tough experience. It was the first thing I'd done on my own, after splitting up with Marie, and to end up like that was a real blow to my ego."

And now, like a handful of other teen dreams (Rick Springfield, David Cassidy), Donny has his own crossover dream: to turn from pop-schlock teeny-boopper superstar to rock 'n' roller. Frank Rand at Epic, who's helping Donny out with a demo, thinks he's got a chance.

In their new $10 million Orem studio, the Osmonds begin taping the 1978-79 "Donny and Marie" show. The facility, less some of its equipment, was recently auctioned off for less than $2 million.

"It's hard to say if it will work," says Rand. "I told him, 'I love the way you sing, I love the way you look. The problem is, your name is Donny Osmond.'"

Marie, too, is enduring some growing pains. Now 26, she is at the top of her country-music career, with a new slit-skirt image and a Grammy-nominated single (with Dan Seals), "Meet Me in Montana." (Has little sister won the first round, Don? "Yeah, the jerk," he laughs.) Her 1985 divorce from Utah basketball player Steve Craig and her single parenthood have lent an aura of normalcy to her once unappealingly immaculate image. She is about to move to Nashville, to be closer to the country-music scene.

Jimmy, who many remember last seeing crooning "That's Life" at age 5 on The Andy Williams Show, has settled behind the cameras. Today, at 23, he co-produces a series of children's shows for the Disney Channel with Donny.

The Osmond Brothers are no longer a quartet. Brother Jay last year became the first singing O to fall to the eight-hour workday, and toils in the admissions office at Brigham Young University, in Provo. "He just got tired of the wheeling and dealing and uncertainty," says one family friend. The trio — Alan, Wayne and Merrill — are recording a new album and will tour through small venues in the South and West. Merrill, too, is moving to Nashville soon, and is considering building a recording studio in the country-music capital.

"I hope," says Donny, "it's a small one." He remembers what happened last time.

SOON AFTER DONNY and Marie went on the air in 1976, George Osmond convinced ABC that the show could be produced from Orem, not Los Angeles. George and Olive wanted their toothy bunch back home in Utah, where the air was clean, the schools sound, the morals unquestionable: "We'd had enough of living in hotels and airports," recalls Olive. The network eventually agreed, provided a proper studio was available. So in early 1977, the Osmonds signed a $2.2 million, 50-year lease on 28 acres of Orem land.

Most predicted they couldn't build a studio in a year and a half, let alone assemble the 250-person staff necessary to produce a weekly show. But on Nov. 1 of that year — a mere six months after groundbreaking — Spencer W. Kimball, then president of the Mormon church, dedicated the George V. Osmond Studios.

The Osmonds spent approximately $6 million on construction of their 104,000-square-foot complex, which boasted a 24,000-square-foot sound stage, two edit bays, an audio recording studio, rehearsal hall, set-construction facilities, makeup and dressing rooms and office space. In addition, they built an elaborate four-plex of condos on the lip of the hill overlooking the studio, right next to Osmond Lane.

Merrill, Wayne and Alan eventually had expensive homes on the Lane, while the rest of the family threw up similar digs in the neighborhood. Sixteen days after the dedication, Donny and Marie tap-danced their way into the living rooms of millions of Americans, in front of a live studio audience full of family and friends.

Hometown fans, though, weren't enough to ensure stellar ratings. Fourteen months after that first broadcast from Orem, in January 1979, ABC redubbed the show "The Osmond Family Show" and shuffled it to Sunday opposite "60 Minutes." It lasted 10 weeks. Disco was in, family entertainment was out, and the Osmonds were off the air.

Throughout the 70s, the Osmonds were teen heartthrobs. At the 1973 concert in Illinois where this photo was taken, 10 girl fans were injured when they were caught in the enthusiasm of the performance.

In the offices above the studios, Merrill and the rest of the family appeared only slightly dismayed by the cancellation. "The show was a nightmare of endless work," sighs Olive, "and we all breathed a sigh of relief when it was over." A former employee remembers differently: "They were severely bummed out — the show was the only reason they'd built the place."

They hoped to turn the facility into a center for out-of-Hollywood production, and added three high-priced directors of commercials on six-figure retainers to help lure business.

"At that point," remembers one employee who worked in their accounting department, "they were doing well. The family was set up as a corporation, and the show had made money (budgeted for overhead and roughly 200 employees, at just over $200,000 weekly). The future looked bright. But they had made one disastrous mistake — they had built an elaborate, expensive film-production studio in the middle of the boonies." Without the weekly cash-flow produced by their TV series, meeting the studio's overhead became a problem.

But the Osmonds are nothing if not hard-working and fiercely competitive. The brothers, led by Merrill and Alan, soon had more companies cooking. There was Osmond Films, which was responsible for films like "The Great Brain" and "Goin' Coconuts"; and Osmond Television, which produced some Osmond family specials, two seasons' worth of a Donna Fargo variety show, and "Mel and Susan Together" (featuring Mel Tillis and Susan Anton). They even set up Osmond Sports Management and signed Dallas Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett to a brief contract. Osmond Entertainment had a hand in coordinating Ronald Reagan's first inauguration. A reporter wrote that Merrill "had more ideas than the patent office."

"There was all sorts of action at that time," recalls one administrator who still works at the facility. "Money was coming in, but it seemed to go out just as fast." In early 1981, Comworld, headed by longtime Osmond associate Dick Callister, split off from the studios, taking over many of the sundry production operations — and leaving the Osmonds the studio.

In a press release that May, Merrill announced the reorganization of the family business. Merrill declared that Osmond Enterprises Inc. would consolidate and run the family's 11 smaller companies, and that he would be the chairman of the board. Merrill boasted then that they had an estimated $100 million worth of business in the works.

"Doesn't the older brother always think he's the smartest?" wonders Donny today.

What Merrill neglected to tell the press was that he was, at the same time, desperately seeking a buyer for the facility. Several different managers were brought in to straighten out the sagging family business, but to no avail. "The bottom line," says the former Osmond accountant, "is that their business deals were mostly hot air."

MIDDLE AMERICA STILL loved Donny and Marie, and they toured often. Jimmy had grown into a heartthrob and taken Japan by storm. The brothers continued to take their country act on the road. But that did not pay the studio's payroll. Two weeks after Merrill's announcement, the Deseret News reported that the studio, operating at less than 20 percent of capacity, would lay off 50 of its last 75 employees. Even after the layoffs, estimates put the studio's monthly overhead between $100,000 and $150,000. That year, according to one remaining employee, the facility lost close to $2 million. Payroll checks were bouncing. Banks threatened to foreclose on the studio, as well as on Merrill's house on Osmond Lane.

A potential buyer surfaced: a Chilean Mormon named Arturo Rizzo, who tried to buy the facility backed by his claimed ownership of a South American titanium mine. He was later imprisoned for attempting to bilk the family. In the words of one employee, "Their lack of management skills was only outweighed by their discernible lack of good judgment."

In February 1983, a savior of sorts did come their way in the person of Paul Jensen, a multimillionaire from Dallas who'd worked as an interior decorator at the studios.

Jensen bought the studios for $6 million within a week after Merrill proposed the sale. He also took over payments and moved into Merrill's house. Merrill also indicated at that press conference that a contract had been signed with Ted Turner for video production at the studio, so "we'll be working 24 hours a day and we'll build a new studio if we have to."

But Jensen knew little-to-nothing about production, and spent millions trying to he bragged about were never consumed. learn. Alleged deals with Ted Turner, the producers of "Let's Make a Deal" and others. The Osmonds eventually asked Jensen to take their name off the studio, and he redubbed it Western National. His efforts were also distracted by a grand jury in Dallas that wanted to know more about what Forbes (magazine) has called one of the largest bank frauds in U.S. history, a scandal involving the financing of Dallas real-estate developments. In March 1985, he filed Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

Today, Jensen and his wife run a cabinet-making company in Heber City, outside of Salt Lake City. The studio is on the auction block, a mammoth white elephant squatted on the outskirts of Orem, with an $8-million price tag.

The Osmonds, meanwhile, keep an office in Orem and occasionally get their name in the local papers. Lately, the family's glamour has been tarnished by numerous publicized bad dealings. Late last year, the Utah State Tax Commission told the Osmonds they owed $40,000 in back taxes, interest and penalties for two Fourth of July shows they put on at BYU; they are appealing. In another suit filed in January, Jay Osmond claims he was bilked out of a $30,000 investment by former chairman of the Osmond Foundation, J. Gary Sheets.

The Osmonds aren't giving up, though. Their bank balances may have foundered, but their determination remains intact. The family, once again headed by Merrill, has gotten into the food-marketing business and is planning to build a $750,000 guest lodge in Avon, Utah, with lodging for 100. George is busy with small real-estate and insurance companies, and Olive runs a mail-order catalog. The folks are planning to build a house on the mountainside, big enough to hold their offspring when they come home to visit.

Olive admits it's out of her hands now. "Our philosophy is that we raised them the way we wanted, and then turned them loose. If you haven't done your job, it's too late."

DONNY, TOO, IS trying to become a deal maker. Trading on the ultimate trustworthiness of his name, the Donny Osmond Entertainment Corporation went public in 1984, raising $4 million to invest in television, movie, sports and concert productions. Stock sold initially at $5 a share and now stands at closer to $1.50, says business manager Bill Waite. "One big company bought $400,000 at the initial public offering, then sold it within a week. The stock dropped immediately to about $2.75." Waite says the stock hasn't appreciated because the company's biggest assets, 81 hours of the "Donny and Marie Show," are just now ready for syndication.

"We're not raking in millions of dollars yet," says chairman of the board Donald C. Osmond. "It's a development company."

Hopefully, a few of the projects are going to start earning lot of money soon. But don't worry, we're in good shape." The young company's first major production, a battle of baseball superstars running, bunting, sliding and hitting with a $54,000 first prize, airs on NBC in May. When asked what he's learned from his brothers' mistakes, Donny's answer is swift. "Sometimes it's cheaper to rent than to buy."

And as a performer, Donny remains pragmatic. "Donny Osmond today, without a record, can't do shows alone," he says quietly. "So we still do some Donny and Marie gigs, but we stay away from big cities. Marie's getting pressure from her record company not to perform with me, and I'm getting the same pressure from my advisers. But Marie's success, and problems, have helped me, too. People see her changing and wonder what I'm up to."

On the family's television special, "Through the Years: The Osmonds' 25th Anniversary," which aired last fall, Donny played a small part. "I didn't want to appear on stage with Marie. I just couldn't sing 'Little Bit Country.' If I duet again in the near future with Marie, it will probably be with Teena Marie." Neither he nor Norman Winter has quite figured how to excise the goody-goody brand Donny wears, but for now they're keeping their fingers crossed. "I've got the stage show all planned," confides Donny. "It's going to be hot."

And in the years to come, if he's back on stage with sister Marie at the Nebraska State Fair? "Hey, one day at a time. But from this vantage point, that would be a disappointment. Just a couple years ago, I thought my biggest successes might have been behind me. Not now."

"For the first time," says his mother, "people probably think he's real."

6. The lessee further agrees to indemnify and save the lessor harmless from and against all claims, demands, and causes of action of every kind that may arise by reason of the acts or omissions of the lessee, its employees or agents occurring under this agreement, insofar as such claims, demands, or causes of action are cognizable under Federal and state law and regulations. The liability of the United States Government in this regard shall not exceed $1,000,000 for each period of occupancy.

7. The lessor shall maintain the demised premises, including the building and any and all equipment, fixtures, and appurtenances, furnished by the lessor under this agreement in good repair and tenantable condition, except in case of damage arising from the acts of the lessee, lessee's agents or employees. For the purpose of so maintaining said premises and property, the lessor may at reasonable times, and with the approval of the authorized Government representative in charge, enter and inspect the same and make any repairs thereto.

8. If the said premises be destroyed by fire or other casualty during the term of this agreement, this lease shall immediately terminate. In case of partial destruction or damage, so as to render the premises untenable as determined by the lessee, the lessee may terminate the lease by giving written notice to the lessor within fifteen (15) days thereafter; if so terminated, no rent or retainer shall accrue to the lessor after such partial destruction or damage; and if not so terminated, the rent or retainer shall be reduced proportionately by supplemental agreement hereto effective from the date of such partial destruction or damage.

9. The lessor warrants that no person or selling agency has been employed or retained to solicit or secure this lease upon an agreement or understanding for a commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee, excepting bona fide employees or bona fide established commercial or selling agencies maintained by the lessor for the purpose of securing business. For breach or violation of this warranty, the lessee shall have the right to annul this lease without liability or in its discretion to deduct from the rental price or consideration, the full amount of such commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee. (Licensed real estate agents or brokers having listings on property for rent, in accordance with general business practices, and who have not obtained such licenses for the sole purpose of effecting this lease, may be considered as bona fide employees or agencies within the exception contained in this clause.)

10. The lessor agrees that he will not discriminate by segregation, or otherwise, against any person or persons because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin in furnishing, or by refusing to furnish, to such person or persons the use of any facility customarily furnished by the lessor solely to tenants, their employees, customers, patients, clients, guests, and invitees.

It is agreed that the lessor's noncompliance with the provisions of this section shall constitute a material breach of this lease. In the event of such noncompliance, the lessee may take appropriate action to enforce compliance, may terminate this lease, or may pursue such other remedies as may be provided by law.

11. In the event of failure by the lessor to provide any service, utility, maintenance, or repairs required under this lease, the lessee shall have the right to secure said services, utilities, maintenance or repairs.

12. The lessor agrees not to reveal the confidential and sensitive terms and conditions, or the general purpose of this agreement; and further, will not undertake any publication or dissemination of any information or material pertaining to this agreement without the prior express written authorization of the lessee.

13. It is understood that receipt of any compensation by lessor, is contingent upon lessor's compliance with the obligation of confidentiality, as well as other aspects of this agreement. Further, all monies derived by lessor from a breach of this agreement, will be forfeited to the United States Government.

14. This agreement shall not be a bar to lessor selling, incumbering or leasing facility. However, lessor agrees to promptly notify the lessee in writing of any changes in the availability, use, or structural alterations prior to consumating such changes.

15. This agreement shall be effective as of the date of execution by the parties and shall continue until the expiration of the current United States Government fiscal year. The lessee has the option to extend this agreement on a fiscal year basis for fifteen (15) one year periods contingent upon the lessee receiving appropriate funding for this purpose. The lessee, by written notice, may terminate this agreement, in whole or in part, when it is in the Government's interest. If this agreement is terminated by the lessee the rights, duties, and obligations of the parties, including compensation to the lessor, shall be in accordance with Part 49 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation in effect on the date of this agreement. At any time other than during lessee's occupancy of the premises during a national emergency, lessor shall also have the right to terminate this agreement upon written notice to lessee. Here are a few additional points covered by the FBI agents who visited Payson.

1) American Greetings may submit figures for any legal costs or administration costs it feels have been incurred implementing this program into action. Such as, my time and Normas time any time you Mel or anyone else may have into it. They will re-imburse.

2) A $2000.00 to $2500.00 annual retainer will paid to American Greetings each year though no actual use of the facility takes place.

3) In the event of a disaster, terrorist attack, earthquake etc. The U.S. Gov't will monthly compensate American Greetings for lost dollars due to orders not shipped , wages lost etc.etc.

4) This contract will run from Oct 1 to Sept. 30 for fifteen consecutive years and may be terminated at anytime and for any reason by either party. We are not bound. At the end of fifteen years the contract will come up for re-negotiation.

5) Even though the facility may never be used, the Federal Gov't. is willing to pay a monthly fee for the goodwill gesture of allowing them to use this as a possible site for their communications equipment. This amount is to be determined by American Greetings if it feels compensation necessary.

This fee is also meant to cover any inconvenience placed upon A.G. in having to cover for the FBI or to "front" so-to-speak for contracts or utility improvements to the premissis. These improvements, however, will not be necessary since all phone cable-electrical & gas incoming are more than adequate for their needs.

6) Should it ever be necessary for the FBI to locate here all equipment, computers, satellites etc. will be brought in onboard eighteen wheel trailers. There will be no permanent attachments or marks made on or to the building or grounds.

AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), hereinafter referred to as the Lessee, may periodically require the use of the facility known as PAYSON, UTAH PLANT

WHEREAS, A.G. Industries, Inc., hereinafter referred to as the Lessor, agrees to provide such accommodations; and

WHEREAS, the parties hereto desire to record their respective rights and obligations;

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. The lessor agrees to make available to the lessee the entire facility on an emergency basis provided the lessee notifies the lessor of such a requirement twenty-four (24) hours in advance. The facility is described as follows:

A one story factory building located on the parcel set forth in Exhibit A attached hereto.

2. The express intent of this agreement is that Lessee shall require use of said facility only during times of national emergency.

3. The Lessee agrees to provide $2500.00 per year and other good and valuable consideration as a retainer. This payment shall be based upon the United States Government fiscal year (October 1 to September 30), and shall be prorated for partial years.

4. In the event said facility is utilized by Lessee, Lessee agrees to compensate lessor for all actual operating expenses as well as lost profit during any period of occupancy. Should any dispute arise as to the amount of compensation, Lessee has the right to examine lessor's records and make any adjustments warranted by such a review. Such compensation shall be defined as rent. ~~It is lessors responsibility to remove all equipment and inventory from the building prior to occupancy by Lessee. Lessee shall reimburse lessor for all costs directly related to moving and storing such equipment and inventory.~~ This does not apply in a case where there is adequate facilities to accommodate the needs of the proposed program.

5. The Lessee agrees to restore the facility to its original unaltered condition if the lessor so requests in writing within thirty days following termination of this agreement. Any such request should be delivered to the Contracting Officer, Headquarters, Federal Bureau of Investigation, 10th & Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535.

Lessor shall not be required to remove equipment and inventory from the building and shall be permitted normal operations in the area not occupied by Lessee

6. The Lessee further agrees to indemnify and save the Lessor harmless from and against all claims, demands, and causes of action of every kind that may arise by reason of the acts or omissions of the lessee, its employees or agents occurring under this agreement, insofar as such claims, demands, or causes of action are cognizable under Federal and state law and regulations. The liability of the United States Government in this regard shall not exceed $1,000,000 for each period of occupancy.

7. The Lessor shall maintain the demised premises, including the building and any and all equipment, fixtures, and appurtenances, furnished by the Lessor under this agreement in good repair and tenantable condition, except in case of damage arising from the acts of the lessee, lessee's agents or employees. For the purpose of so maintaining said premises and property, the lessor may at reasonable times, and with the approval of the authorized Government representative in charge, enter and inspect the same and make any repairs thereto.

8. If the said premises be destroyed by fire or other casualty during the term of this agreement, this lease shall immediately terminate. In case of partial destruction or damage, so as to render the premises untenable as determined by the lessee, the Lessee may terminate the lease by giving written notice to the Lessor within fifteen (15) days thereafter; if so terminated, no rent or retainer shall accrue to the Lessor after such partial destruction or damage; and if not so terminated, the rent or retainer shall be reduced proportionately by supplemental agreement hereto effective from the date of such partial destruction or damage.

9. The Lessor warrants that no person or selling agency has been employed or retained to solicit or secure this lease upon an agreement or understanding for a commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee, excepting bona fide employees or bona fide established commercial or selling agencies maintained by the Lessor for the purpose of securing business. For breach or violation of this warranty, the Lessee shall have the right to annul this lease without liability or in its discretion to deduct from the rental price or consideration, the full amount of such commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee. (Licensed real estate agents or brokers having listings on property for rent, in accordance with general business practices, and who have not obtained such licenses for the sole purpose of effecting this lease, may be considered as bona fide employees or agencies within the exception contained in this clause.)

10. The Lessor agrees that he will not discriminate by segregation, or otherwise, against any person or persons because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin in furnishing, or by refusing to furnish, to such person or persons the use of any facility customarily furnished by the Lessor solely to tenants, their employees, customers, patients, clients, guests, and invitees.

It is agreed that the lessor's noncompliance with the provisions of this section shall constitute a material breach of this lease. In the event of such noncompliance, the lessee may take appropriate action to enforce compliance, may terminate this lease, or may pursue such other remedies as may be provided by law.

11. In the event of failure by the lessor to provide any service, utility, maintenance, or repairs required under this lease, the lessee shall have the right to secure said services, utilities, maintenance or repairs.

12. The lessor agrees not to reveal the confidential and sensitive terms and conditions, or the general purpose of this agreement; and further, will not undertake any publication or dissemination of any information or material pertaining to this agreement without the prior express written authorization of the lessee.

13. It is understood that receipt of any compensation by lessor, is contingent upon lessor's compliance with the obligation of confidentiality, as well as other aspects of this agreement. Further, ~~all monies derived by lessor from a breach of this agreement, will be forfeited to the United States Government.~~

14. This agreement shall not be a bar to lessor selling, incumbering or leasing facility. However, lessor agrees to promptly notify the lessee in writing of any changes in the availability, use, or structural alterations prior to consummating such changes.

15. This agreement shall be effective as of the date of execution by the parties and shall continue until the expiration of the current United States Government fiscal year. The lessee has the option to extend this agreement on a fiscal year basis for fifteen (15) one year periods contingent upon the lessee receiving appropriate funding for this purpose. The lessee, by written notice, may terminate this agreement, in whole or in part, when it is in the Government's interest. If this agreement is terminated by the lessee the rights, duties, and obligations of the parties, including compensation to the lessor, shall be in accordance with Part 49 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation in effect on the date of this agreement. At any time other than during lessee's occupancy of the premises during a national emergency, lessor shall also have the right to terminate this agreement upon written notice to lessee. Upon such termination by lessor, neither party shall have any further rights, duties, and obligations hereunder.

~~16. Lessor further agrees to provide for any utility improvements or alterations to his facility which are expressly required by lessee and which are definitized in an Addendum to this agreement, said Addendum being incorporated herewith by reference. The lessee agrees to pay all costs for such improvements or alterations for the period of this agreement.~~

will be necessary.*

17. Lessor understands that the Lessee is the FBI which is acting in furtherance of its lawful investigative responsibilities and Lessor agrees to accept direction under this agreement only from Lessee or Lessee's employees or agents.

18. This document constitutes the full and complete understanding between Lessor and Lessee. Modifications to this agreement will have no force and effect unless and until such modifications are reduced to writing and signed by all parties hereto.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have subscribed their names.

For the purpose of so maintaining said premises and property, the Lessor may at reasonable times, and with the approval of the authorized Government representative in charge, enter and inspect the same and make any repairs thereto.

8. If the said premises be destroyed by fire or other casualty during the term of this agreement, this lease shall immediately terminate. In case of partial destruction or damage, so as to render the premises untenable as determined by the Lessee, the Lessee may terminate the lease by giving written notice to the Lessor within fifteen (15) days thereafter; if so terminated, no rent or retainer shall accrue to the Lessor after such partial destruction or damage; and if not so terminated, the rent or retainer shall be reduced proportionately by supplemental agreement hereto effective from the date of such partial destruction or damage.

9. The Lessor warrants that no person or selling agency has been employed or retained to solicit or secure this lease upon an agreement or understanding for a commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee, excepting bona fide established commercial or selling agencies maintained by the Lessor for the purpose of securing business. For breach or violation of this warranty, the Lessee shall have the right to annul this lease without liability or in its discretion to deduct from the rental price or consideration, the full amount of such commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee. (Licensed real estate agents or brokers having listings on property for rent, in accordance with general business practices, and who have not obtained such licenses for the sole purpose of effecting this lease, may be considered as bona fide employees or agencies within the exception contained in this clause.)

10. The Lessor agrees that he will not discriminate by segregation, or otherwise, against any person or persons because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin in furnishing, or by refusing to furnish, to such person or persons the use of any facility customarily furnished by the Lessor solely to tenants, their employees, customers, patients, clients, guests, and invitees.

It is agreed that the Lessor's noncompliance with the provisions of this section shall constitute a material breach of this lease. In the event of such noncompliance, the Lessee may take appropriate action to enforce compliance, may terminate this lease, or may pursue such other remedies as may be provided by law.

11. In the event of failure by the Lessor to provide any service, utility, maintenance, or repairs required under this lease, the Lessee shall have the right to secure said services, utilities, maintenance or repairs.

12. The Lessor agrees not to reval the confidential and sensitive terms and conditions, or the general purpose of this agreement and further, will not undertake any publication or dissemination of any information or material pertaining to this agreement without the prior express written authorization of the Lessee.

13. It is understood that receipt of any compensation by Lessor is contingent upon Lessor's compliance with the obligation of confidentiality, as well as other aspects of this agreement.

14. This agreement shall not be a bar to Lessor selling, incumbering or leasing facility. However, Lessor agrees to promptly notify the Lessee in writing of any changes in the availability, use, or structural alterations prior to consummating such changes.

15. This agreement shall be effective as of the date of execution by the parties and shall continue until the expiration of the current United States Government fiscal year. The Lessee has the option to extend this agreement on a fiscal year basis for fifteen (15) one-year periods contingent upon the Lessee receiving appropriate funding for this purpose. The Lessee, by written notice, may terminate this agreement, in whole or in part, when it is in the Government's interest. If this agreement is terminated by the Lessee, the rights, duties, and obligations of the parties, including compensation to the Lessor, shall be in accordance with Part 49 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation in effect on the date of this agreement. At any time other than during Lessee's occupancy of the premises during a national emergency, Lessor shall also have the right to terminate this agreement upon written notice to Lessee. Upon such termination by Lessor, neither party shall have any further rights, duties, and obligations hereunder.

16. Lessor understands that the Lessee is the FBI which is acting in furtherance of its lawful investigative responsibilities and Lessor agrees to accept direction under this agreement only from Lessee or Lessee's employees or agents.

17. This document constitutes the full and complete understanding between Lessor and Lessee. Modifications to this agreement will have no force and effect unless and until such modifications are reduced to writing and signed by all parties hereto.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have subscribed their names.

WHEREAS, Ruby's Inn, Inc., hereinafter referred to as the lessor, agrees to provide such accommodations; and

WHEREAS, the parties hereto desire to record their respective rights and obligations;

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. The lessor agrees to make available to the lessee the entire facility on an emergency basis provided the lessee notifies the lessor of such a requirement twenty-four (24) hours in advance. The facility is described as follows:

The lodge and all motel rooms as well as the trailer park and all adjacent parking space and unimproved land within a six acre area.

2. The express intent of this agreement is that lessee shall require use of said facility only during times of national emergency.

3. The lessee agrees to provide $2,500.00 per year and other good and valuable consideration as a retainer. This payment shall be based upon the United States Government fiscal year (October 1 to September 30), shall be prorated for partial years, and is contingent upon the receipt of appropriated funds from the United States Congress.

4. The lessee agrees to pay the established/published rate per night for each room occupied, utilized or otherwise controlled by lessee for any period of occupancy. The lessee agrees to compensate the lessor for any loss of income from the General Store, Restaurants, Trailer Park and other income that is generated from occupant related services. The amount of income to be compensated for will be based on a review of the lessor's financial records by the lessee for a similar time period during the preceding two years. In no case will the amount of this compensation be more than the income derived from gross sales in the amount of $10,700/day for the General Store, $6,425/day for the restaurants, $1,000/day for the trailer park.

5. The lessee agrees to reimburse the lessor for the cost of transportation and relocation of any of lessors occupants displaced as a result of this agreement. This reimbursement is to include the cost of room at other hotels as well as any transportation required to a new hotel in the same vicinity. The liability of the lessee in this regard shall not exceed $1,000 per occupant. For the purposes of this agreement, occupant is defined as a current tenant or one that is expected within the five days following the activation of this agreement.

6. The lessee further agrees to reimburse the lessor's employees for loss of wages, or other incidental employee benefits, which result from lessee's period of occupancy.

7. The lessee agrees to restore the facility to its original unaltered condition if the lessor so requests in writing within thirty days following termination of this agreement. Any such request should be delivered to the Contracting Officer, Headquarters, Federal Bureau of Investigation, 10th & Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20535.

8. The lessee further agrees to indemnify and save the lessor harmless from and against all claims, demands, and causes of action of every kind that may arise by reason of the acts or omissions of the lessee, its employees or agents occurring under this agreement, insofar as such claims, demands, or causes of action are cognizable under Federal and state law and regulations. The liability of the United States Government in this regard shall not exceed $1,000,000 for each period of occupancy.

9. The lessor shall maintain the demised premises, including the building and any and all equipment, fixtures, and appurtenances, furnished by the lessor under this agreement in good repair and tenantable condition, except in case of damage arising from the acts of the lessee, lessee's agents or employees. For the purpose of so maintaining said premises and property, the lessor may at reasonable times, and with the approval of the authorized Government representative in charge, enter and inspect the same and make any repairs thereto.

10. If the said premises be destroyed by fire or other casualty during the term of this agreement, this lease shall immediately terminate. In case of partial destruction or damage, so as to render the premises untenable as determined by the lessee, the lessee may terminate the lease by giving written notice to the lessor within fifteen (15) days thereafter; if so terminated, no rent or retainer shall accrue to the lessor after such partial destruction or damage; and if not so terminated, the rent or retainer shall be reduced proportionately by supplemental agreement hereto effective from the date of such partial destruction or damage.

11. The lessor warrants that no person or selling agency has been employed or retained to solicit or secure this lease upon an agreement or understanding for a commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee, excepting bona fide employees or bona fide established commercial or selling agencies maintained by the lessor for the purpose of securing business. For breach or violation of this warranty, the lessee shall have the right to annul this lease without liability or in its discretion to deduct from the rental price or consideration, the full amount of such commission, percentage, brokerage, or contingent fee. (Licensed real estate agents or brokers having listings on property for rent, in accordance with general business practices, and who have not obtained such licenses for the sole purpose of effecting this lease, may be considered as bona fide employees or agencies within the exception contained in this clause.)

12. The lessor agrees that he will not discriminate by segregation, or otherwise, against any person or persons because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin in furnishing, or by refusing to furnish, to such person or persons the use of any facility customarily furnished by the lessor solely to tenants, their employees, customers, patients, clients, guests, and invitees.

It is agreed that the lessor's noncompliance with the provisions of this section shall constitute a material breach of this lease. In the event of such noncompliance, the lessee may take appropriate action to enforce compliance, may terminate this lease, or may pursue such other remedies as may be provided by law.

13. In the event of failure by the lessor to provide any service, utility, maintenance, or repairs required under this lease, the lessee shall have the right to secure said services, utilities, maintenance or repairs.

14. 17. This agreement shall be effective as of the date of execution by the lessee and shall continue until the expiration of the current United States Government fiscal year. The lessee has the option to extend this agreement on a fiscal year basis for fifteen (15) one year periods contingent upon the lessee, receiving appropriate funding for this purpose. The lessee, by written notice, may terminate this agreement, in whole or in part, when it is in the Government's interest. If this agreement is terminated by the lessee the rights, duties, and obligations of the parties, including compensation to the lessor, shall be in accordance with Part 49 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation in effect on the date of this agreement. At any time other than during lessee's occupancy of the premises during a national emergency, lessor shall also have the right to terminate this agreement upon written notice to lessee. Upon such termination by lessor, neither party shall have any further rights, duties, and obligations hereunder.

18. Lessor further agrees to provide for any utility improvements or alterations to his facility which are expressly required by lessee and which are definitized in an Addendum to this agreement, said Addendum being incorporated herewith by reference. The lessee agrees to pay all costs for such improvements or alterations for the period of this agreement.

19. Lessor understands that the lessee is the FBI which is acting in furtherance of its lawful investigative responsibilities and lessor agrees to accept direction under this agreement only from lessee or lessee's employees or agents.

20. This document constitutes the full and complete understanding between lessor and lessee and shall replace any agreements previously entered into between the parties. Modifications to this agreement will have no force and effect unless and until such modifications are reduced to writing and signed by all parties hereto.

Dear [redacted]

Following is the confirmation of rates for twenty-five flat rate private business lines with third-number and collect call restriction which you requested.

Each line is $ 53.77 monthly.

-- --X 25
Total - $1,344.25 per month plus applicable taxes

Initial installation is $ 76.50 per line.

X 25
$1,912.50
+ 125.00 per RJ21X
Total - $2,037.50

Depending on the distance from the entrance cable to the shipping room, labor and wiring charges possibly might apply. These charges are determined at the time of installation. The Installer will leave an invoice detailing all materials used and labor. Labor is billed in fifteen-minute increments; the first fifteen minutes is $39.00 and each additional fifteen-minute increment is $10.00.

You also requested twenty-five nonsequential numbers in the same thousand bank. We could not meet that request due to limitations in the numbers available in Payson. I have, however, reserved the following telephone numbers for your use.

In order for me to reserve telephone numbers, we agreed on a due date of August 31. If we need to make any changes to this order or if you have any questions or concerns, please call me at [redacted]

ASSESSMENT RELATIVE TO UTAH COUNTY. AS PREVIOUSLY NOTED, THE PRIMARY CONCERN IS TO IDENTIFY CRIMINAL AND/OR HOSTILE INTELLIGENCE ACTIVITIES THAT MIGHT THREATEN OR COMPROMISE RELOCATION EFFORTS AND VARIOUS SUPPORT OPERATIONS. MORE SPECIFICALLY, CAPTIONED PROJECT SEEKS TO DETERMINE THE POTENTIAL FOR DELIBERATE OR INADVERTENT COMPROMISE DURING PEACETIME CONDITIONS AND FOR DISRUPTIVE ACTIVITIES DURING A NATIONAL EMERGENCY AS A CONSEQUENCE OF:

1. CRIMINAL ACTIVITY

A. ORGANIZED CRIME GROUPS (E.G., MOTORCYCLE GANGS, LCN, ETHNIC/RACIAL GANGS)--OWNERSHIP/CONTROL OF BUSINESS/REAL ESTATE AND ILLEGAL ACTIVITIES SUCH AS GAMBLING, DRUG TRAFFICKING, ETC.

B. UNUSUALLY HIGH LEVEL OF NON-ORGANIZED CRIMINAL ACTIVITY.

2. INTELLIGENCE RELATED ACTIVITIES.

A. U.S. GOVERNMENTAL INTELLIGENCE/DEFENSE ACTIVITIES WHICH MAY BE TARGETS OF HOSTILE INTELLIGENCE SERVICES.

B. TRAVEL WITHIN PAST YEAR OF HOSTILE INTELLIGENCE PERSONNEL OR OPERATIVES TO OR THROUGH THE AREA AND DURING WHICH INTELLIGENCE (GEOGRAPHICAL, ECONOMIC, CLIMATIC, ETC.) COLLECTION WAS APPARENT.

3. EXTREMIST/TERRORIST RELATED ACTIVITIES.

EXCLUSIVE REPORT

AMERICA'S DOOMSDAY PROJECT

The U.S. has a secret survival plan in the event of nuclear war, but would it work? Critics have doubts.

AMERICA'S DOOMSDAY PROJECT

It is one of America's deepest official secrets, a combination of classified escape plans, cleverly concealed bunkers and Space Age communications systems that, in the event of a surprise nuclear attack, would enable the government to regroup to provide critical services to a stricken citizenry and organize an effective military reprisal against its attacker. It might well be called the Doomsday Project, but government bureaucrats, indulging their penchant for the prosaic, simply call it COG, short for "continuity of government."

COG is the government's ultimate insurance policy should Armageddon ever arrive, providing the program runs smoothly. That may be the problem. U.S. News has learned that officials familiar with COG worry that parts of it are deeply flawed. Their concerns focus on the quality of the program's technology, the way the program is administered and some apparent contract irregularities. Inquiries by the Pentagon, the Justice Department and the House Armed Services Committee are under way, and a federal grand jury is hearing testimony on the program. The investigations are exploring the following complaints:

- That state-of-the-art communications systems, which have cost billions of dollars, do not function properly.
- That "sole source" contracts, often required because of the secrecy of the program, were awarded improperly, resulting in millions of dollars in program costs that may not be justified.
- That security at some bunkers and supply depots, which contain massive amounts of food, drugs and chemicals, has been plagued by numerous breaches.

The origins of, and the need for, a plan to keep the U.S. government functioning after a nuclear attack are hardly surprising. After the Soviets successfully tested an atomic bomb in August, 1949, defense planners in Washington began

If disaster strikes

① In the event of a surprise nuclear attack, plans call for the President or his successor to be evacuated on the White House Crown Helo, which could serve as an airborne command post.

preparing measures to counter the threat of nuclear attack. In 1951, President Harry Truman created the Civil Defense Administration, which drew up the first set of evacuation plans for the nation's capital. One year later, the Army Corps of Engineers began carving an enormous bunker out of a mountain in the Virginia countryside not far from Washington. The place was called Mount Weather, and before it was completed, it would cost over $1 billion. Mount Weather became the nation's biggest and best fall-out shelter, though its existence was not officially acknowledged until 1974, when a TWA jet crashed nearby.

Tensions have eased considerably since the height of the cold war, but even today, despite a moderating Soviet Union and Mikhail Gorbachev's apparent willingness to engage in serious conventional and nuclear-arms reductions, planning for doomsday continues. The latest thinking focuses more on high-tech communications than on hardened-concrete fallout shelters. Command, control and communications—"c-cubed" in the military argot—have become the new trinity. "Computers, satellites and radars," says defense analyst William Arkin, "share priority status with missiles, bombers and submarines."

It was Ronald Reagan's belief, expressed early in his Presidency, that a nuclear war was "winnable" but only if the government in Washington could guarantee its own survival. A review of the COG program by Reagan administration officials found big trouble on that score. Despite the attention paid by prior Bush. Before Bush succeeded Reagan in the Oval Office, more than $3 billion had been spent upgrading command, control and communications links.

On paper, the results were impressive. The officials designated as the chain of command in the event the President were disabled are tracked on a daily basis. The White House Communications Agency, together with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the Pentagon, keeps computerized itineraries for the officials (see chart, page 29). Standing orders provide that, at any given time, one of the 17 designated successors will be away from Washington. But intelligence sources say there have been more than a dozen occasions during the past seven years when all of the officials have been within 2 miles of each other in the capital.

According to a key COG plan, known as "Treetop," in the event of a nuclear attack, special teams equipped with war plans, military codes and other essential data would accompany each designated presidential successor to secret command posts around the country. The President himself would be whisked from the Oval Office by the White House's

EU WHITNEY—U.S. ARMY

At Fort Huachuca. Satellites to facilitate reprisal administrations, much of the COG technology had not been updated since the 1950s and 1960s. Improvements had to be made, and quickly. In 1982, a new secret agency was created. It was called the Defense Mobilization Planning Systems Agency, and its officials were instructed to report to then Vice President George ③ With refueling, the kneecap could remain airborne almost indefinitely, allowing the President or his successor to direct a military reprisal and coordinate emergency-relief efforts.

Crown Helo, a high-tech helicopter command post, to a National Emergency Airborne Command Post (NEACP, called "kneecap"), a specially reconfigured Boeing 747 jammed with telecommunications gear. Actually, there are four kneecaps. One is always kept airborne; another is parked at Andrews Air Force Base, less than 10 minutes from the White House by helicopter.

Who gets saved

Besides the President and the other officials designated as successors, the Pentagon has developed COG plans for evacuating an additional 46 key officials at any time of the day or night. These 46, named in the Joint Emergency Evacuation Plan, or JEEP, would be moved by helicopter to bunkers and command posts. Each has been issued a JEEP-1 identification card. Most of the JEEP-1 cardholders are military officers who work for the Joint Chiefs of Staff. An additional 248 JEEP-2 cardholders—disaster-relief specialists, senior Pentagon officials and others—would be airlifted to bunkers and command posts but only between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 pm. An attack after business hours would mean JEEP-2 cardholders would have to get in their cars and drive to their designated locations. In all, more than 1,000 political and military officials have been deemed important enough to the continued operations of government to warrant evacuation.

So odd is the business of planning for doomsday that nothing may be taken for granted. Thus, COG planners have assumed that the coordinates for Mount Weather and Raven Rock have already been entered into the targeting devices of the Soviet Union's long-range missiles. Because of this, there are other secret civilian and military bunkers. Specialists from FEMA and the Pentagon have divided the country into 10 different regions, among which there may be as many as 50 different "fallout resistant" command-post bunkers, each linked with the others by satellite, ground-wave and high-frequency transmissions. Any one of these facilities is equipped to function as an emergency White House, coordinating the functions of a new, reconstituted government. Theoretically, any secret command bunkers could be used by the President or his successor during or after a nuclear strike, allowing COG planners to play the ultimate high-stakes shell game. The attacker could never be certain which bunker was the "right" one.

Like "command and control," secrecy and deception would also become watchwords of the COG planners. In its essence, during the heavy expenditures of the Reagan years, COG, or Project 908, which is one of its official titles, was a crash program designed to manufacture mobile and secure communications systems, establish the regional centers to which a government under attack could safely be relocated and replicate the most important government services, including allocation of food and medicine and coordination of disaster relief. Because it was so sensitive, the Reagan administration decided to remove much of the program from congressional oversight. Even many senior Pentagon officials were unaware of its existence.

For all the planning and money that went into the COG program, there have been some embarrassments. One plan called for placing new communications gear capable of withstanding the electronic pulses created by nuclear explosions into specially configured 18-wheel tractor trailers. The first two prototype trucks were completed in 1984, but when they were dispatched on a test run in rural Virginia that fall, disaster struck. In one instance, a road buckled under the truck, which was far heavier than ordinary roadbeds can accommodate. The truck sank into the pavement, immobilized. The other truck got wedged beneath a highway overpass. Evidently, someone had neglected to check clearance heights for bridges.

Some of the communications gear itself caused problems. Officials say the computer systems of different government agencies have not been able to communicate with each other properly. Collectively, the systems cost billions of dollars to design, build and install. Three years ago, intelligence officials say, it was discovered that five such systems could not communicate with one another at all. To rectify the problem, new "interface modems" were designed, but intelligence officials say the modems have interfered with the systems' ability to send and receive information, in some cases by as much as 75 percent. In one instance, a missile-launch protocol (a detailed series of data needed to arm, fuse and launch a missile) took several seconds to transmit; the transmission is supposed to be almost instantaneous. In selected reports to Congress, military officials say, COG planners misrepresented the results of

The U.S. military has its own scenario to cope with doomsday. In a nuclear attack, the Pentagon would certainly be targeted, so plans have been laid for the nation's military elite to wage war from other places. There are secret bomb shelters and airborne command posts. The most likely underground bunker is located 5 miles north of Camp David in the Maryland hills. Its official name is the Alternate National Military Command Center, but it is known more commonly as Raven Rock or, simply, Site R. Raven Rock is said to be able to withstand everything but a direct hit. The nation's war planners could stay there a long time, too. According to military documents, Raven Rock has a medical clinic, a barber shop and a dining hall. There is also a chapel, a laundry (self-service only), a racquetball court and a place to cash checks.

Mount Weather. The enormous underground bunker could house 1,000 officials who would run the country

The President and top military leaders could take to the air, if need be, boarding one of four specially equipped Boeing 747s called National Emergency Airborne Command Posts (NEACP's) kept at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington. The NEACP's can stay airborne for 12 hours and travel up to 6,000 miles without refueling. They carry tons of communications equipment linked to a satellite network, as well as commercial telephone systems.

If the Strategic Air Command is unable to carry out its mission from its underground headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base outside Omaha, it, too, can take to the air. SAC maintains several four-engine jet aircraft code-named "Looking Glass," each of which can carry a 28-person airborne command staff—including intelligence, weather, logistics and battle specialists. These craft can remain aloft for more than 8 hours. One of the jets is kept airborne at all times.

LINE OF SUCCESSION

In the event that the President were incapacitated in a nuclear attack, federal law specifies that these officials would succeed him in the following order:

Vice President Dan Quayle

Speaker of the House Thomas Foley

Robert Byrd

Secretary of State James Baker III

Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady

Secretary of Defense Richard Cheney

Atty. Gen. Dick Thornburgh

tests on the systems. "Congress was treated to a successful demonstration," says one knowledgeable military source, "except the results were rigged." At one briefing, in December, 1985, congressmen were told that the communications systems were "operational," even though they were not capable of functioning properly at the time.

Problems with COG, which might have come to light eventually, surfaced when someone blew a whistle. In 1983, then Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and the Joint Chiefs of Staff assigned the Army the job of devising and maintaining the COG communications system under Project 908. The Army, in turn, assigned the job to its Information Systems Command, based at Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

Who gets paid

For help on Project 908, the Information Systems Command turned to a company based in Arlington, Va., the Betac Corporation. A consulting firm composed of former intelligence and communications specialists from the Pentagon, Betac was awarded a "sole source" contract to devise and maintain security systems for parts of the COG communications system. The "main basis for selecting the Betac Corporation for this contract effort," according to an Army contracting document, "was because no other company has its unique experience, business status and role in C3I architecture." Internal Army documents indicate the value of Betac's Army contract in 1983 at $316,672. By 1985, it had risen to nearly $3 million. By 1988, Betac had multiple COG contracts worth $22 million.

A civilian intelligence officer responsible for security at the Information Systems Command was curious about Betac, according to Army and congressional sources. Thomas Golden wanted to know whether regular Army personnel could supply the services Betac was being paid to provide. Golden would not talk with a U.S. News reporter. But military and congressional sources say he became curious after learning that a number of Army officials who had worked with Betac at Fort Huachuca and elsewhere were retiring from the Army and being hired back, under the auspices of Betac. As paid consultants to the Army, some were earning up to $400 a day. Seldom had the Pentagon's revolving door spun more quickly. Golden also discovered that Eugene Renzi, a colonel who was deputy chief of staff for operations at the Information Systems Command, had been a key player in the award of the Betac contract. Golden learned that Renzi's son was now working for Betac.

Pointing fingers at COG was a risky business. Gicola Thorndike, a senior Army contracting officer at Fort Huachuca, says she was forced out of the Army after demanding repeatedly to review the Betac contract. But Golden had authority to review parts of the contract. And in July of 1987, when investigators from the Army inspector general's staff came to Fort Huachuca asking questions about Betac, Golden talked. Under an offer of confidentiality, Golden told of his concerns about the Betac contract. Within weeks, Golden's comments had leaked back to Fort Huachuca.

Unanswered questions

It was a bad sign. The Army's inspector general has enjoyed a strong reputation for integrity, but the Golden affair shot a huge hole through it. The Army IG began another investigation to determine who had leaked Golden's comments. But word of the new investigation quickly leaked, and before the investigators even left for Fort Huachuca, officials at the Information Systems Command had begun destroying documents. When the Army investigators arrived at Fort Huachuca, they were told the documents had been destroyed in compliance with "routine classified-documents disposal" procedures. According to a copy of their report, the Army investigators concluded that Renzi had retaliated against Golden. But they found no other improprieties and recommended that the investigation be closed. Renzi received a reprimand. The affair was over. Or so it seemed.

But others besides Golden had begun raising questions about the COG program. Fred Westerman had worked for more than 20 years as an Army counter-intelligence officer before retiring to open his own consulting firm, Systems Evaluation, Inc. Documents show that

From 'duck and cover' to 'run like hell'

Perhaps the seeds of optimism were sown way back after the great flood, when Noah and his passengers trooped off the ark onto Mount Ararat, two by two, eager to get on with being fruitful and multiplying. It was then that God promised never again to "destroy every living creature." And ever since, human beings have maintained a stubborn hope that it is possible to survive the worst.

Nothing has changed in the Nuclear Age. The first great fad, after the Soviets detonated their first A-bomb, was blast shelters—windowless, thick-walled buildings that might protect inhabitants if they didn't happen to be located precisely at ground zero. But such buildings were far too expensive to build, so federal officials launched a multimedia educational campaign. KNOW THE BOMB'S TRUE DANGERS, blared the films and pamphlets. To avoid them, simply "duck and cover." Millions of schoolchildren spent untold hours ducking under desks and covering their heads to the tune of air-raid sirens.

The trouble was that even the experts didn't know the bomb's true dangers. And as it became clear that the most acrobatic ducker wouldn't survive a thermonuclear blast, officials changed their advice from "duck and cover" to "run like hell" and tried to design evacuation plans. In the mid-1950s, scientists realized that even if you ran, you couldn't hide. The real danger of the bomb was a silent, invisible and highly mobile byproduct called fallout. By 1962, and the Cuban missile crisis, fallout shelters were the order of the day. Families stocked backyard bunkers with food, water and weapons.

The early 1980s brought the last great burst of civil-defense enthusiasm. Although his advisers never figured out just where he got his information, Ronald Reagan was convinced that the Soviet Union had invested in "a great civil-defense program" and called for a matching American effort. Building shelters for all Americans would cost a budget-shattering $70 billion or more, so federal officials concentrated instead on "crisis relocation planning." Once again, the planners designed evacuation measures. The private sector, too, pitched in. AT&T set up shelters for key executives. And in LaVerkin, Utah, a developer built 240 his company was awarded a contract to provide security for COG facilities around the country. According to Westerman's attorney, Francis Mroz, Westerman discovered that his part of the COG program was riddled with security problems, such as inadequate alarms, faulty locks and flimsy doors. Mroz also says his client became concerned about "waste and abuse," such as payments for work not properly done. After Westerman proposed tighter controls, he says, the Army declined to renew his contract. He has sued the Army and FEMA for what he says are unreimbursed costs. In court papers, he has alleged that unidentified government agents have conducted a campaign of secret surveillance, break-ins at his office and wiretaps. His lawyer was a witness to one episode in Peace of mind. Americans could buy a bit of security in their own back yards underground condos complete with outdoor scenes painted on the "windows."

For those without access to such facilities, Reagan's deputy under secretary of defense, T. K. Jones, had some advice. "Dig a hole, cover it with a couple of doors and then throw 3 feet of dirt on top. It's the dirt that does it. If there are enough shovels to go around, everybody's going to make it."

by Merrill McLoughlin.

which an alleged government agent kept watch on Westerman's movements. When the agent's license plate was traced, it was found to belong to a couple in Delaware, who knew nothing about the vehicle. A Justice Department attorney has since launched an investigation of Westerman to determine whether he committed any fraud in the COG program. In an extraordinary move, the government has also sought to classify Westerman's civil suit.

Congressional investigators eventually became aware of some of the concerns about COG, having heard complaints informally through contacts in the Pentagon. Representative Les Aspin (D-Wis.), the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, was especially perturbed by the Army's initial investigation into the COG program. In a report, Aspin's investigators concluded that the Army's inspector-general system was compromised. And in a stinging letter to Army Secretary John Marsh dated Oct. 24, 1988, Aspin said he was "concern[ed] about the objectivity and competence of the investigation." Aspin wrote that the "confidentiality [of the investigation] was breached almost immediately by the head of the inspector-general inspection team." Aspin's investigators concluded that the Army had failed to exercise adequate oversight over the COG program. They also found that the sole-source contract to Betac should not have been allowed. Betac officials say they know of no investigation of any of their contracts. They declined to discuss the COG program because of its classified nature.

Cover-ups and fat contracts

For the Congress, the first long look into the COG program was not a heartening one. In response to Aspin's letter, the Army has reopened its investigation of the Army's inspector general and the COG program. Those familiar with this latest inquiry, and with the ongoing congressional inquiry, say intelligence officials are disturbed by what they describe as attempted cover-ups of wrongdoing, possible fraud and woefully inadequate oversight of multimillion-dollar contracts. Investigators have been told of double billing by some COG contractors to separate agencies of the government for the same work. It was also learned that other contracts, valued at millions of dollars, were increased, some by as much as 50 percent, without input by any contract-oversight office or without any demonstration of need. Pentagon sources say the COG program has awarded contracts worth tens of millions of dollars to former military officials who worked on COG while they were in the Pentagon. "The program," says a key official, referring to a troubled multibillion-dollar antitank weapons system that was scrapped by Congress, "is another DIVAD." Says another: "It is a real mess."

Things could get messier still. Subpoenas have been issued, and a grand jury continues to hear evidence. Congress is set to hold hearings this fall on the lack of oversight of classified, or "black," Pentagon programs like COG. For one of the nation's most secret national-security programs, the glare of publicity is bound to be embarrassing. That one of the nation's most important national-security programs was jeopardized by the very people in charge of it would be the most wounding development of all. ■
